We offer several products that have different options or choices that must be specified for them to be possible to buy. When a material needs to be configured, a button appears that prompts you to configure the product. In this case, the length of the rail needs to be specified. Click the configure button.

The screenshot shows the Rexroth product configurator interface for ball guide rails. The page title is "Ball guide rails". The breadcrumb trail is "Typkod < Kugelschiene CS KSA-025-SNS-A-MA-AK". The interface includes a "back" link, a "Load configuration" button, a "Save configuration" button, and a "Consultation request" button. The main content area displays a technical drawing of a ball guide rail with a dimension line indicating the length. The length is set to "1000 mm (min/max = 80/5816) ±1.5 mm". A "Continue" button is highlighted with a red box. The footer contains the text "30 DCENSLF1-SE | 04/12/2021 © Bosch Rexroth AB 2021. All rights reserved, also regarding any disposal, exploitation, reproduction, editing, distribution, as well as in the event of applications for industrial property rights." and the Rexroth logo.

The configurator is a separate program; therefore, the layout looks a little different. Enter the length in the box and click continue. Depending on how many options need to be specified, new boxes will appear. Continue until you are through them all.

When you have gone through the choices, you will come to the last page where you can download a cad file of the product.

If you want to add the product to your shopping basket, click on "Add to basket".

If there is already a product in the shopping cart with the same article number, you will get a pop-up box asking if you want to add this as a new article to the cart or if you want to update the one that is already there.

If you want to create more articles with the same article number but with a different length, click on the line in the configurator where you want to make the change. You then click through the remaining steps in the configurator until you reach the end again. Add this to the shopping cart and select that you want to add this as a new product.
