- 1.3. Goods are offered exclusively to entrepreneurs. For the purposes of these Conditions, "Entrepreneur" shall mean a natural person, a legal person or an organizational unit as referred to in Article 33¹ of the Civil Code, carrying out a commercial or professional activity in its own name (Article 43¹ of the Civil Code), who has been registered on the Rexroth Store platform and whose registration has been confirmed by Bosch Rexroth.

2. Online orders, including the ordering process, conclusion of the agreement, storage of the content of the agreement

- 2.1. When ordering online, the Customer is notified about the arising costs (for standard shipments), payment and delivery terms, validity periods, notice periods and other relevant conditions. When the Supplier receives the order, an email is automatically generated confirming that the order has been accepted for processing. Only when Bosch Rexroth sends an official order confirmation generated by the SAP system, the order is considered binding.
- 2.2. The online offer is a non-binding invitation to the Customer to place an order for the Goods. A contractual relationship is established when the Customer receives an email confirmation of acceptance of the order from the Supplier, generated by the SAP system. The Customer shall bear the cost of resignation from the Goods ordered from the Supplier.
- 2.3. The content of these General Conditions shall be stored by Bosch Rexroth and shall be available to the Customer at any time until the Supplier has fulfilled the order. Before confirming the order, the Customer may print the content of the agreement using the print function in the browser or save it in electronic form. The agreement shall be drawn up in English.

3. Prices and payment

- 3.1. The current net prices on the date of placing the order by the Customer are valid. All prices quoted are, unless stated otherwise, net prices in EUR (euro).
